Judith Sentenced To Prison as Red Spy

FOUND GUILTY of being a spy for Russia, Judith Coplon, diminutive ex-Justice Department political analyst, is escorted in Federal Court, Washington, by her attorney, Archibald Palmer, a few minutes after the jury reported its verdict.

Ousted Lancaster Policemen Reinstated by Commission

LANCASTER, July 1—(AP)—City Civil Service Commission today reversed Service-Safety Director D. L. Grove's dismissal of three police officers and suspension of a patrolman.

The commission ordered the three officers be suspended instead for 30 days without pay and that two of them be reduced in rank. It also reversed entirely a 15-day suspension of Patrolman Lester Crook.

The four men had been suspended May 25 for 30 days each by Police Chief Sam Hutsler. The three officers were reduced by Hutsler to the rank of patrolmen.

A Civil Service Commission spokesman said today the 30-day suspensions by the commission would not be in addition to those made by Chief Hutsler. The effect of this is to restore all three officers to duty immediately.

In its ruling today, the commission held that all three officers had been guilty of "various acts as set forth in the bill of particulars" against each. The commission said, however, that the acts committed by the officers did not warrant their dismissals.

In the case of Patrolman Crook, the commission held that the 15-day suspension meted out by Grove should be "disaffirmed" and that Crook should be reinstated and receive back pay lost because of the suspension.

At last night's final hearing on the suspension of Lieutenant Brown, a woman, who told Service-Safety Director D. L. Grove that she paid a $26 "kick-back" to a police officer, reversed herself and declared she was in error. She is Mrs. Paul Fast, operator of a motorcycle sales and service company.

Mrs. Fast told the service-safety director in a private hearing last month that she gave $26 to Brown as part of her firm's profit on three leather coats which it sold to the police department.

Director Grove, then considering charges of misconduct against the police officer, proceeded to dismiss him.

Last night, however, she told the civil service commission that "I was in error—I guess I gave the wrong information."

Her husband then testified that it was he who gave $26 to officer Brown. Asked why, Fast replied, "because he wore a badge—he was the law."

Installment Buying Controls Abandoned

WASHINGTON, July 1—(AP)—The terms allowed installment credit buyers are up to the nation's dealers today. The government has nothing more to say about it.

Federal Reserve Board authority to limit installment credit terms expired at midnight. Congress purposely let it lapse.

The controls, quite strict in wartime, were allowed to lapse for an 11-month period beginning in 1947. Then Congress renewed the law last summer.

For the past nine months the Federal Reserve Board has made its controls more and more lenient so that those expiring last night actually were no stiffer in most respects than dealers used to impose of their own accord in pre-control days.

Priest Arrested For Church Bingo

ROCKFORD, Ill., July 1—(AP)—The Rev. Raymond Patrick Gordon, a Roman Catholic priest, was arrested last night after 12 policemen raided his church to halt a bingo game.

The priest, pastor of St. Bridget's Church in suburban Love's Park, was charged with being a keeper of a gambling establishment. He was released on his recognizance after appearing before a justice of the peace.

Mattress Prices Sliced By Firestone Company

AKRON, July 1—(AP)—The Firestone Industrial Products Co. yesterday announced a price reduction of $10 to $20 on Foamex mattresses. The cuts were made in a schedule of suggested retail prices with corresponding adjustments in its own prices to bedding manufacturers.

WASHINGTON, July 1—(AP)—Judith Coplon today was sentenced to 40 months to 10 years in prison for spying for Russia.

The tiny brunette former Justice Department worker heard the sentence unflinchingly.

A short time before hearing her penalty, she made an impassioned statement to Federal Judge Albert L. Reeves, but she did not ask for mercy.

No money fine was stressed. The maximum possible penalty was 13 years in prison and a fine of $2,000.

Actually, Judge Reeves passed two sentences—40 months to 10 years on the first (spying) count of the indictment against her, and one to three years on the second (theft of secrets) count.

He stipulated, however, that the sentences be served concurrently. Just before passing sentence, Judge Reeves said:

"I thoroughly approve of the verdict of the jury."

Judge Reeves ordered Miss Coplon to post a new bond of $20,000.

Her old bond here—$10,000—automatically expired with the passing of sentence.

She also is under $20,000 bond in an espionage conspiracy case in New York.

Under today's sentence, Miss Coplon would be eligible to apply for parole in 40 months, should she lose the appeal which her attorney-announced would be made.

Judge Reeves recommended the sentence be served in the Women's Reformatory at Alderson, W. Va.

He explained, however, this is a mere recommendation and the prison will be selected by the Justice Department if Miss Coplon actually serves the time.

Judge Reeves rejected a demand by Prosecutor John M. Kelley, Jr., that Miss Coplon be held in bail of $100,000.

He did go part way with this request by doubling her bail here.

Long speeches by the 28-year-old Bernard College honor graduate and by her attorney, Archibald Palmer, delayed the sentencing.

Judge Reeves expressed impatience with Palmer as he talked on and on.

When Miss Coplon finally stood up to hear her sentence she told the judge she did not think she had received a fair trial.

"I understand that I can plead for mercy," the former political analyst in the Justice Department began.

"That I will not do. To me that would be an admission of guilt."

"I'm innocent—the Kelleys and the Weartys may gloat, but I am innocent."

She referred to the prosecutors, John M. Kelley, Jr., and Raymond P. Whearty.

Whearty once was Miss Coplon's boss in the Justice Department.

Miss Coplon, her voice frequently rising with emotion but never reaching hysteria, said Kelley and Whearty "want to break me, but I will never break."

She then told Judge Reeves she did not think she got a fair trial here. She added she hopes "to get a fair trial" in New York where she and Valentine A. Gubitchev, a Russian, face trial July 11 on the conspiracy charges.

Her association with Gubitchev, Russian engineer on the staff of the United Nations, was part of the core of the government case. They were arrested together in New York March 4. Federal agents said they found Miss Coplon's pocketbook filled with government secrets on subversion and counter espionage.

Miss Coplon complained that the press had pictured her as hysterical at times during her long appearance on the witness stand.

She insisted she never was hysterical "and I'll never be hysterical."

"Is that all?" Judge Reeves asked.

"I could keep on and on saying what a horrible way they (Kelley and Whearty) have conducted this case," she said.

"I don't want sympathy."

Judge Reeves spoke at considerable length, reviewing the

He is Charles A. Foster, of Bloomingburg, formerly with the U. S. Marine Corps for 26 months, and who saw service in Japan before being honorably discharged from the service.

Foster is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Foster, and has spent most of his life in Bloomingburg and vicinity.

Since he returned from service with the Marine Corps, he has been assisting his brother Howard Foster, in the Foster market and installing furnaces.

Deputy Sheriff Foster and family will move into the sheriff's residence at the county jail, next week, and he will take up his new work on Tuesday.

Nap in Box Car Here Lands Man In Vet Hospital

Percy Lane, 59, from near Ashland, Ky., found that sleeping in a box car to escape the heat was not easy going by any means, when he was aroused from his slumbers in a car back of the Sunshine Feed Co. plant here, by a switch engine coupling onto the car about 1 A. M. Friday.

Lane, who had come here to obtain a job on a farm, and had left his baggage at the American Legion Hall, was aroused by the impact of the engine with the box car, and not wanting to be hauled away from the city, his baggage and a job, he started to get out of the car.

Still almost half asleep his footing was not very secure, and as he was about to leap to the ground, the engine made a sudden lurch and Lane was hurled against the side of the doorway with such violence that a five inch gash was cut in his head.

His calls for help attracted Delbert Carr who removed him to police headquarters and he was later taken to the office of Dr. Clarence Hayes where the large gash was closed and he was given other attention.

He was then removed to the Veterans Hospital in Dayton in the Gerstner ambulance.

Youth Drowns in Creek

CAMBRIDGE, July 1—(AP)—Robert Davis, 14, of Derwent, Guernsey County, drowned yesterday in a creek near his home. The victim was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Davis.

Mine Operators Behind 8-Ball

No Alternative Left After Lewis' Orders

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., July 1—(AP)—Most coal operators today shrugged off the possibility they would challenge John L. Lewis' three-day work week in court.

"What would be the use?" One leading operator said. "Who would mine our coal? Strangers?"

Nevertheless, in a formal statement by George H. Love of Pittsburgh, top spokesman for the north and west, the production limit imposed by the United Mine Workers chief yesterday was described as "illegal."

The alternative to bowing to Lewis' long-cherished stabilization play was a complete shutdown of the industry. The operators whose production will be cut by the short week declared "half a loaf is better than none."

Actually, some of them expressed the view production would be reduced only about 20 per cent since most of the workers are piece or tonnage miners, whose pay is based on the amount of coal loaded.

Lewis sidetracked his strike threat for at least another month and a half—maybe longer. He left the date for a new contract showdown wide open. The old contract expired last night at midnight.

Northern and western operators who have been conferring with Lewis have believed that under the Taft-Hartley act the miners could not end their contract before August 14, because Lewis had to allow 60 days from the date when he first notified them he wanted to talk about a new pact.

Lewis never agreed publicly to that, but he didn't shut down the mines. That was the big thing in most operators' minds.

At Bluefield, W. Va., where the Southern Coal Producers Association has been meeting with Secretary-Treasurer John Owens and his team of union negotiators, there was relief because they had been blanketed in the three-day order. The southern operators didn't like it, but they would have been in serious isolation if their mines had been struck alone.

11-Year-Old Girl Hangs Self in Barn

CIRCLEVILLE, July 1—(AP)—Coroner Lloyd Jones reported today that Allen Miller, 11-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Orville Miller, committed suicide yesterday by hanging herself.

Jones said the girl used a rope strung to a rafter in a barn on her father's farm. In returning his verdict, the coroner said the act was the result of a "frustrated, nervous personality."

The girl was the second of eight children.

School-Kid Job Seekers Raises Unemployment

WASHINGTON, July 1—(AP)—The June wave of school-age youths seeking jobs boosted unemployment to a seven-year high of 3,778,000.

Reporting this today, the census bureau said two out of three of the new job-hunters managed to find work. So the number of unemployed also rose, reaching 59,619,000. This is tops so far for 1949 and barely below the one-time goal of "sixty million jobs."

Joan Coward . . . killed.

THERE ARE "LOOPHOLES" in the story of Arthur Marino, 28, that two men attacked him and his sweetheart, 17-year-old Joan Coward, near a lake and forced him to undress, walk into the lake, and later swallow ammonia, say Chicago police. Marino said he later found Joan's nearly nude body on back seat of his car. He drove to a police station clad only in shoes and a towel and, his throat burning from the ammonia, wrote out his story for police. They said he refused to submit to a lie detector test. Joan's body showed no evidence of criminal attack.

President Faces Ticklish Problem After Labor Law Repeal Move Fails

WASHINGTON, July 1—(AP)—House Democratic leaders today awaited word from President Truman on what to do about the wreckage of the administration's bill to repeal the Taft-Hartley law.

The Senate completed demolition of that bill yesterday. Then it passed a substitute by Senator Taft (R-Ohio) which contains the basic provisions of the present labor law. The vote was 51 to 42.

That action, by a coalition of Republicans and southern Democrats, blasted high and wide the 1949 hopes of Taft-Hartley repeal advocates. It probably means the T-H measure still will be on the books—and a top campaign issue again—when the 1950 congressional elections roll around.

The Senate vote scarcely was tabulated when Mr. Truman told his news conference: The fight is going to continue as hard as I can make it.

That made it clear no white flag will fly from the White House. But it did not lay down a specific course for Mr. Truman's lieutenants in the House. Speaker Rayburn (D-Tex.) told reporters he doesn't know what the House will do. He and other Democratic leaders indicated they want to get Mr. Truman's views on the matter.

Senator Lucas of Illinois, the party's chief in the Senate, said he is standing by his prediction that Mr. Truman will veto the Taft bill if it ever goes to him.

Other senators who voted against the bill made similar forecasts, but Mr. Truman declined to say whether he would veto the Taft measure.

Asked whether he would try to defeat Taft for re-election next year, Mr. Truman replied he never had undertaken to defeat the Ohioan. He had no comment on Taft's campaign, or on the re-election prospects of other senators who voted with Taft.

In the House, Reps. Burke (D-Ohio) and Jacobs (D-Ind.), both members of the labor committee, said there is strong sentiment in that group to keep labor legislation on the shelf and take the issue to the people in next year's elections. Burke and Jacobs added, however, that they are against that. They want a House showdown at this session.

Purchasing Agency Is Put into Service

WASHINGTON, July 1—(AP)—The government put a new agency to work today at mass purchasing for most federal bureaus, in a move to save money.

It was suggested as an economy step in the government reorganization plan of the bipartisan commission headed by former President Herbert Hoover.

Congress finished legislation setting up the new General Services Administration yesterday and President Truman quickly signed the bill into law.

At its head Mr. Truman placed a former army colonel and Oklahoma lawyer, Jess Larson.

Larson has been serving as federal works administrator.

Marijuana Seized In Cincinnati Raid

CINCINNATI, July 1—(AP)—A large quantity of marijuana was confiscated and two men were arrested here yesterday in a raid by city police and federal agents.

Federal Narcotics Agent Roy E. Anderson said the marijuana was packed in a 50-pound lard can, five quart jars, a shopping bag, a pint jar and a small grocery bag.

Kent State University To Close Canton Branch

CANTON, July 1—(AP)—Kent State University yesterday announced it will close its Canton branch a year from today. President George A. Bowman said the branch would be closed because the Ohio House Finance Committee failed to appropriate $100,000 to operate the school after July 1, 1950.

Bill Payments Balked However

Legislature Acts On Several Bills

By REED SMITH
COLUMBUS, July 1—(AP)—The state began a new fiscal year today with lots of money it can't spend.

The Senate finance committee, meeting until 4 A. M. today, tentatively approved a biennial budget which restored practically all cuts made by the House.

In addition, the committee added about $9,000,000 in new money, but at the same time ordered Finance Director H. D. Defenbacher to make a 4 percent across the board cut in all items not fixed by law.

The revised budget would thus come to about $649,000,000, close to the amount recommended at the beginning of the session by Gov. Frank J. Lausche.

The committee's addition of $9,000,000, added to the House-approved budget of $646,802,498, brought the total to more than $655,000,000, but the 4 percent slash dropped this figure to approximately that recommended by the governor.

Report Next Week

Committee Chairman Cline Jackson (D-Mahoning) said the budget bill would probably not be reported until the latter part of next week at the earliest. Jackson said he hopes the bill will be put through during the week of July 18.

In the meantime, however, the legislature will have to pass a two-month emergency budget of about $65,000,000 to meet current state expenses, Jackson said.

According to the chairman, the committee tentatively approved restoration of cuts made by the House in funds to state-supported universities, the liquor department and the highway department.

The 4 percent cut, he said would be made on items which total about $150,000,000. Defenbacher was ordered to make the cuts and will report back to the committee probably by the middle of next week, Jackson added.

Salaries Held Up

July salaries and bills can't be paid until the legislature gives assent, possibly next week. Paychecks for some old age pensioners, state workers and all the lawmakers face delay.

Thirty-four legislators drew advances totaling more than $11,000 on their July pay before weekend adjournment Thursday. They gave the state treasurer's office IOUs. Ohio lawmakers receive $350 each month during sessions. They get the rest of the $2,600 annual salary during the remainder of their two-year terms.

Numerous state employees will receive wages for the last half of June this month. They are in the liquor department, state institution, highway divisions and bureau of unemployment compensation. State funds encumbered before today can be paid out, but no others, fiscal officers explained. They blame a slow legislature. Here's why.

Authority to spend money ran out Thursday when the six-month appropriation bill expired. It will be renewed with enactment of the biennial budget or a partial appropriation.

Appropriation Muddle

Sen. Cline Jackson (D-Mahoning) introduced a $61,775,000 appropriation bill last Wednesday to run the state for two months. The measure will be printed over the weekend. Leaders said the legislature may whip it through both houses next week. The gov-

Second Damage Suit Is Filed

Sheridan Carr Asks For $15,000

The second damage action in two days has been filed against Ralph Ladd and Fred Mabry, the first for $15,995 by Beryl Carr, whose auto was struck by a truck operated by the defendants and driven by Fred Mabry, and the new suit, for $15,000 by Sheridan Carr, who was a passenger in the truck with Mabry when the accident occurred on Route 35 at the intersection of Route 138, in Ross County, Nov. 5, 1948.

Sheridan Carr states that he was employed by the two defendants, who were partners in operating the truck involved in the accident, and was riding with Mabry.

Plaintiff states as the truck approached the intersection Mabry shouted that the brakes were not working and leaped from the truck, without slowing the truck for the main highway.

Carr further states that the accident was wholly due to the negligence and carelessness of the defendants and that he received personal injuries which have impaired his health and reduced his earning capacity, all to his damage in the sum of $15,000.

Carr is represented by James F. Winchell, of Columbus.

Janice left Thursday for Chautauque, New York, where she will sing for her third year with the Chautauque Opera Company.

This year marks the first in which Miss Murray has gotten a role in an opera. Her first two years she sang in the chorus.

She will take her first role July 15, when "Pirates of Penzance," a Gilbert and Sullivan opera, is presented.

A graduate of the music school at Ohio State University, she studied her senior year on a General Electric scholarship and is working on her master degree in music.

Willard Hope Is Back in Jail Here

Willard Hope, 39, of 1394 Mulford Road, Columbus, was back in the county jail here for the second time in a year, and for a similar offense, driving while intoxicated.

A year ago Sheriff Orland Hays picked Hope up on the CCC Highway a few miles west of here, after his car had taken the ditch. He had struck two cars in Wilmington prior to landing in the ditch.

At that time Hope, employee of the State Highway Department, was fined $100 and his license revoked for a year, on a charge of driving while intoxicated. Thursday night shortly before midnight Sheriff Hays was called out to where a car had taken the ditch on the CCC Highway a mile east of this city, and again picked up Hope. The man was taken to the county jail and a charge of driving while drunk was filed against him in common pleas court, Friday.

evidence before telling Miss Coplon the penalty she must pay unless higher courts intervene.

The judge brushed aside a demand by Palmer that he order a new trial instead of passing sentence.

As Palmer kept bobbing up and down, talking rapidly, Judge Reeves seemed to lose patience with him and ordered the attorney to sit down and remain seated.

"I dread that it seems necessary to me to speak harshly," Judge Reeves told Palmer.

The judge then indicated Palmer may never be allowed to try another case in the federal courts here.

He suggested the attorney's conduct during the long turbulent trial may warrant withdrawal of further "courtesy" here.

The federal judges here make rules for allowing attorneys from other jurisdictions to try a case. Palmer is from New York.

Judge Reeves himself is a visitor, from Kansas City, Mo. Judge Reeves called the evidence in the case "very simple" and said the trial was unnecessarily prolonged, particularly by Palmer.

er's cross-examination of government witnesses.

He remarked that Miss Coplon admitted from the stand the movements testified to by FBI agents, yet Palmer took days in cross examining the agents.

These preliminary remarks out of the way, Judge Reeves began discussing the case itself.

He said Miss Coplon's conduct at the time the FBI took up her trial was such as to arouse "great suspicion," particularly in view of the tense relations between this country and Russia.

The petite, 5-foot, 100-pound brunette defendant heard the jury's verdict—which could bring her a maximum sentence of 13 years in prison and a fine of $12,000—with no visible emotion except a slight nervousness.

Within 15 minutes she was smiling for photographers and saying into newsreel cameras:

"The only thing I can say is what I've already said—I am innocent."

The eight men and four women on the jury, by their verdict, told Miss Coplon they did not believe her story that her meetings in New York with Gubitchev resulted from her love for him.

The government's theory, which the jury accepted, was that Miss Coplon intended to pass secrets from Justice Department files to Moscow via Gubitchev, an engineering employee of the United Nations.

Among the papers in her purse were 34 summaries of confidential FBI reports relating to internal security and to suspected Soviet espionage agents.

The jury received the case after listening to about 2,100,000 words of testimony and arguments spread over nearly ten weeks. The verdict came almost exactly 27 hours after the jury started its deliberations.

CHICAGO, July 1.—(AP)—Small gains were posted by most grain contracts on the Board of Trade today. Trading was quite brisk, particularly in wheat, but no wide price changes were made.

Heating sales expanded in wheat as more grain was received at major terminals. Interior markets today got 4,238,000 bushels against 3,207,000 a week ago.

Corn was aided by news that very large amounts of that grain have been tied up in the government loan. Soybeans spurred in line with gains of cottonseed oil at New York. Lard showed strength early but eased a bit toward the close.

NEW YORK, July 1.—(AP)—Demand for stocks perked up today after the market got off to a sleepy start.

Gains ranged from fractions to more than a point. Many issues which had drifted into minus territory at the outset later moved up a bit.

The Death Sentence

By ROY L. SMITH

It has long been the custom of historians to pay high tribute to the Greeks for the contribution they have made to the world's art and literature, and every such tribute is well deserved. Similar appreciation has been expressed for the Romans and their genius for law. It is about time that we lifted our voices in appreciation of the Jew and his contribution to the religious life of the race, for no race of men since time began have rendered a service so significant and unique as they have.

Religion Was Their Racial Genius

The glorious artistic achievements of the Greeks were the work of a few individuals and inspiring individuals. Great masses of the people lived lives that were sordid and wretched.

The humane and exalted legal system of the Romans was the product of the enlightened idealism of a relatively few persons who happened to occupy positions of power.

The remarkable religious and spiritual insight of the Hebrews was a racial gift in which vast numbers of the people shared. An occasional individual might write a magnificent hymn, or psalm of praise, but once it was composed, then the whole nation sang it. The ability of an entire people to appreciate the beautiful and the noble is as remarkable as the genius of the artist who produces the work of art. It was in their genius for spiritual appreciation that the Jews excelled. This was their racial genius.

The People's Song Book

Some hint as to the exalted thinking current among the ancient Jews is to be discovered in the Book of the Psalms in the Old Testament. Here are the deep aspirations of the people, their sense of values, their awareness of sublime spiritual truths.

The Sunday School lesson for July 3: "The Songbook of the Bible" Psalm 1: 33: 12-15; 67; 100.

No one can possibly know who wrote all the psalms, for some of them will remain anonymous until the end of time. But anyone can know who saved them from oblivion. It was the plain people who sang them day in and day out as expressions of their own deep longings and hopes.

No publisher brought them together in a great collection for the purpose of marketing them at a good price. No poet was ever paid for composing a psalm. Every line sprang from a devout heart, and every poem was preserved by those who had discovered that it contained the truth they could not quite express for themselves.

There is a sense in which it can be said that all the Hebrew people united in writing the book of Psalms. At least all the people by their singing contributed some part toward their preservation.

The Introduction

The first psalm of the collection, the one which introduces them all, was put at the head of the book because it expresses the most profound religious and moral convictions of the Jewish soul. It declares once and for all the difference between the way of the righteous and the way of the ungodly. The one leads to life, the other to death.

There is a divine and unalterable principle operating in our world from which there is neither deviation nor escape. The gods are fortunate, and the ungodly are doomed.

It is not that the ungodly are the victims of an arrogant divinity who cannot be reasoned with, but that they have taken a way of life that can end only in death. Like a man who has driven out on to a condemned bridge which collapses under him, so the man who sets out upon the way of the ungodly finds it ultimately betraying him.

We Are All Their Debtors

It is impossible for Christians to even estimate their indebtedness to the spiritual seers among the Jews who bequeathed to us this noble collection of religious songs.

Every man who has found his life stabilized by the confident faith of the twenty-third psalm, every one who has found his wounds balm with the beautiful assurances of the nineteenth psalm, every discouraged one who has taken courage from the innumerable lines of faith—all these and countless others owe their peace of mind and their serenity to the holy faith and high devotion to the sweet singers of Israel.

Mahlon Wisecup Will Get Hearing Soon

Mahlon Wisecup, Highland County man who was arrested here for the murder of Grant Nichols, at Carmel in eastern Highland County, found guilty by a Highland County grand jury and sentenced to die July 25, is to have a clemency hearing on July 12.

Schools and Education Your Problem

Education in general, and public schools in particular, have become one of the most popular subjects for discussion, not to say heated arguments.

The trouble is, few are qualified to discuss such a complex subject intelligently. That is their own fault. Public school records are open for inspection and meetings of the board of education are open to the people. Few, however, ever take the trouble either to look at the records or to attend the meetings. Most are apathetic, they just can't be bothered. But, when it comes to expressing an opinion, that's something different. Nearly everyone has one, and nearly everyone wants to express it.

Washington C. H. and Fayette County have school problems, but it's doubtful if many outside the boards of education really know what they are or understand them. That is worse than too bad, it is tragic; for it is the people who have to foot the bills and the future of their country depends to a considerable degree on the type of schools and kind of administration their tax money provides.

To enumerate those problems here, as we see them, would serve no good purpose, unless it would be to start an argument steeped in ignorance or at best vague understanding.

It's better that the people who support our schools find out for themselves first hand what those problems are. Then they would be in a position to form intelligent opinions—and often the facts, when ascertained from authentic sources, change first prejudiced impressions.

Then, there is the important matter of government school aid. About all you hear now is that it will cost a tremendous amount of money and boost taxes. The federal finger in public schools is something that deserves serious thought—thought based on fact.

Of course, government school aid is not exactly new. The states have been at it for a long time and the policies under which it has operated admittedly have come under fire on more than one occasion. But, federal aid is something else and that is the current storm center.

Going almost hand in hand with the federal school aid proposals is the plan for the federal government to help finance school buildings.

Washington C. H. and Fayette County could hardly expect to get back as much as they put into the broad education development program, but there is a chance that both could cash in on the building aid plan.

The population increase has created a serious problem for the Washington C. H. board of education and the people who pay the taxes. The schools are so crowded they are bulging at the seams. They have been for several years, and the condition has been getting no better.

Something will have to be done. The board of education has said so and almost everyone who has taken the trouble to give even casual thought to the situation agrees. The question is, how is the best way to relieve the overcrowding. Only intensive study and exhaustive research could come close to a solution.

The county school system undoubtedly has its problems, too. For, schools and education progress and progress means changes, just like the change from the little one-room school house to the bigger consolidated schools. They lead to better education and more efficient and economical operation.

So, without attempting to point out what should be done, it would seem practical for the city and county boards of education to talk over their building problems, with progressive and unprejudiced long-range objectives, together with a view to coordinating the countywide program of education.

New York Is Wonderful Feeling

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK.—(P)—Oh, I tell you New York is a wonderful town!

It must be fine or there wouldn't be so many people crowded here together to enjoy it.

It's really a terrible place to visit or die in, but a grand town to live in.

For her the poor man has courage, and fights for his rights. He's as good as a millionaire any day, and he'll stay up all night to tell you why. Yes, rich or poor, you're just another number here, and sometimes it's pleasant to wonder whether you're 8, 675,341 or maybe 1,435, 768. Who cares?

There is one thing sure: you can never be Mr. Number One. Because nobody is big enough to be really important on this $24 island. You have to belong to it—it can never belong to you. This is a man's own, and it's cut for size. It has outgrown everybody who ever lived in it—and it's still growing.

And the people who live in it are growing, too. The fat-voiced tourists come here and look around and shake their heads and leave again, saying, "after all, New York City isn't America."

But New York City is America, and there is no town more American. Because here people are really working toward the kind of democracy the rest of the country reads about in high school civics books.

There are only a few cities in the world that are really cities—London for courage, Paris for loveliness, Calcutta for misery, Shanghai for sin, Rome for healing and hurt, Athens for blue skies, Cairo for gold and intrigue, Naples for a merry heart and a dirty face, Berlin, the tomb and womb and anvil of war, Moscow for mockery of human rights, and Washington, where every man who has been elected twice can hope for a marble monument.

And, of course, there are smaller cities with a breadth of mind—say Philadelphia, say St. Louis, say Baltimore, say New Orleans, say San Francisco, the city with the singing name, or Boston, the only place I know where nobody hollers against $2 bills. They are all old cities, each marked by an antique bigotry or prejudice of its own and stamped by an individual careless freedom, too, as all old cities are.

Wrap them all together and you'll almost have New York—but not quite.

For there is nothing as tremendous as this tremendous village, America's long dream pushed into a few square miles of struggle and grope, where people move like moles underground and hope in terms of towers.

Never a day dawns here but my spirit feels taller on the way to work from seeing the Empire State Building shoulder the morning mist, comforting as a fairy tale in an hour of fear. And never an evening sun sinks down without my spirit yearning from the sight of some ugliness that dwells here, too, in men and buildings.

Oh, but they're growing better, the men and the buildings and the city they make up. Here if you have a prejudice you have to keep it silent. Because if you say it out loud, the other fellow will haul you into court, and the judge will fine you and make you feel ashamed. Some day there won't be even a silent prejudice left here, and the sea winds will wash over a clean city, all the way from Staten Island to the Bronx.

New York is opportunity. They put the Statue of Liberty in the right place, and more and more the old girl feels she belongs here. She still holds her lamp before the golden door, and the door is New York City, where all who enter find home and welcome—and the equal chance that all men ask.

It is certainly no accident that there are three Major League baseball teams here.

American travellers' checks.... "He told me, in a very pleasant but firm voice, that, of course, I understood that I could buy these pounds in New York for about $3.00. I told him that I understood that fully and that if one had a number of them to sell in New York it was difficult to obtain $3, for that was all they were worth. The customs official then told me that he would have to confiscate everything over 5 pounds, so he took my 8 pounds and gave me a receipt for the same. I told him that I was not going to charge it to lend-lease...."

Silly! Of course, the British official was doing his duty, but the British government is so dollar-hungry that it discourages tourism, which could be highly profitable. By forcing American tourists to bring only American dollars to England, they are actually forcing many to go to France and Italy to spend their money. My friend states:

"....In some instances, some of the stores ask you to give them prima-facie evidence that you have cashed American dollars in to sterling to pay for your purchases. In short, the sterling is worth somewhere under $3 and they are trying to hold it up to $4 and are continually complaining about the dollar block...."

Meanwhile, the components of the British commonwealth of nations are forming trade agreements against American imports. In a word, when the Marshall Plan billions are spent, American traders will face a series of British government-owned and operated cartels aimed at our economic destruction. Nobody paid for that before—but then we Americans like novelties.

Diet and Health Stages of Growth In Eyes of Child

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

THE child's eyes are precious and should be carefully guarded. In order to do an intelligent job in this regard, it is important for parents to realize that the eyes go through different stages of growth just as the rest of the body does. If defects occur, they usually show up at one of these crucial stages, and that is when something should be done without delay.

It is perfectly normal for the child to be farsighted at birth because the eyeball is short. As the eyes grow, this farsightedness disappears, and by the time the child is five or six years of age, vision should be normal. If it is not, the child should be fitted with glasses to avoid the eyestrain involved in attempts to focus the eyes. This type of eyestrain may be responsible for some discomfort and under certain conditions may lead to crossed eyes during the second or third year of life. The farsighted child may not have any trouble until he starts school; then, after reading or writing, symptoms of eyestrain develop. During illness, the symptoms also may be more pronounced.

Eyeball Too Long

Nearsightedness is due to the fact that the eyeball is too long. In nearsighted children, images are always blurred, and the condition cannot be corrected by the focusing structures of the eye. Nearsightedness is a common disorder. There is evidence that it may run in families. There are some who think that perhaps excessive use of the eyes in childhood may play a part in producing this disorder. Lack of exercise and general poor health are also thought to be contributing causes. Of course, the treatment consists in fitting the child with proper glasses and seeing to it that he gets enough outdoor exercise and sunshine, and that he does not use the eyes for too much close work.

Astigmatism is another common type of eye disturbance. In this condition, the front part of the eyeball is not properly shaped, which causes blurring of the vision. Astigmatism also can be corrected with proper glasses so that images are clearly seen. If not corrected, it will lead to eyestrain.

It is evident that when these eye defects are discovered and early and proper treatment is carried out, they may be kept from progressing. If they are neglected, it is likely that the condition will become constantly worse. It is important for every child to have an examination of the eyes, particularly at the time he enters school. Even a child as young as one and one-half years of age may wear glasses if he needs them.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

O. K.: What causes yellow-looking spots to start appearing around the eyes?

Answer: This condition may be due to xanthoma palpebrarum.

Xanthoma palpebrarum consists of rounded collections of small yellow growths. Generally, the eyelids of both eyes are involved. This condition is essentially a disease of middle or later life, and is a degenerative condition which affects a muscle around the eye. The growths may be cut off or removed by applying monochloroacetic acid. Carbon-dioxide snow probably is more satisfactorily used than any other method of treatment.

What About Britain's Condition?

By George E. Sokolsky

The British Embassy announces that the state of England is very good indeed. Here are its figures:

Production in British industry and in agriculture is about 25 percent above the 1938 level. Unemployment is less than 2 percent of all insured employees, compared with 11 percent in 1939. The average working week now stands at just over 45 hours compared with 46½ in 1938. Average earnings are just under 6 pounds a week compared with just over 2 pounds 10 shillings a week in 1938.

"Exports over the first four months of this year were about 50 percent above the 1938 volume. The prices of our exports are now a little over two and a half times pre-war, but the cost of the goods we import has gone up nearly three times. The dollar deficit is still running at a rate of well over $12 billion a year.

Over two-thirds of our supplies of food and raw materials from North America during the past year have been paid for out of gifts and loans from the USA and Canada...."

In a word, this picture includes two salient facts:

1. "Over two-thirds of our supplies of food and raw materials from North America" were "paid for out of gifts and loans from the United States and Canada"—most of it being from the United States.
2. The dollar deficit continues.

It would be easier to relish the continued aid to Great Britain were it not that their experiments in Socialism are at our expense and many of them are designed to produce a barter system of state monopolistic exports aimed at us. For instance, the British flirtations with the Chinese Communists, designed to buy off the attacks on Hongkong, are not sound from an American standpoint.

A friend of mine recites his experience:

"I flew over to London one day from Paris. I took a few pounds out of the safe in Paris for a bit of spending money while in London. When I went through the customs at the airport in England, the customs official asked me how much money I have with me. I opened my pocketbook and said, 'a few pounds.' He counted them very carefully and there were 13 pounds. He said to me, 'you know you are only allowed to bring 5 pounds into England, 5 pounds of English currency.' I laughed and said, 'yes, I did, but I did not really know how much English currency I had in my pockets.'...I had a good many American travellers' checks....

"He told me, in a very pleasant but firm voice, that, of course, I understood that I could buy these pounds in New York for about $3.00. I told him that I understood that fully and that if one had a number of them to sell in New York it was difficult to obtain $3, for that was all they were worth. The customs official then told me that he would have to confiscate everything over 5 pounds, so he took my 8 pounds and gave me a receipt for the same. I told him that I was not going to charge it to lend-lease...."

Silly! Of course, the British official was doing his duty, but the British government is so dollar-hungry that it discourages tourism, which could be highly profitable. By forcing American tourists to bring only American dollars to England, they are actually forcing many to go to France and Italy to spend their money. My friend states:

"....In some instances, some of the stores ask you to give them prima-facie evidence that you have cashed American dollars in to sterling to pay for your purchases. Welsh Chorus Is Presented At Silver Tea

The Women's Society of Christian Service of the Madison Mills Methodist Church entertained at the home of Mrs. Frank Dorn in Madison Mills with a silver tea on Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Harold King and Mrs. Dwight King were the assisting hostesses.

Mrs. Kenneth Campbell was in charge of the elaborately prepared program and welcomed the guests and members. She announced the theme of the program as "The Folklore Of The British Isles." Mrs. Leland Dorn, president of the society, gave a brief summary of the English, Scotch and Irish music, after which Mrs. Campbell introduced the following children: Lucinda Schlichter, Patricia Hunter, Patricia Lindsey, Carol Grim, Carol Wollam and Annalee Frey, who sang, "Oh Dear, What Can the Matter Be." Little Miss Lucinda Schlichter, a voice student of Mrs. Amanda Maul Paxson, sang an Irish song "The Rainbow." The children closed their portion of the program with a Scotch dance, "The Chimes of Dunkirk."

Mrs. Campbell then introduced Mrs. Leone Butcher who gave a short talk on "Wales." She stressed the love of the Welsh people for singing and their great religious zeal. It was fortunate for the society to have chosen this topic for study as Mrs. H. W. Melvin, a member, entertained 20 Welsh ladies of Jackson as her luncheon guests. Mrs. Melvin in her introduction of the ladies, pointed out that they were not professionals—only housewives who loved to sing, true to their Welsh descent. All of the well-given numbers, with the exception of a verse of one number which was in English, the group of songs were all in Welsh. Their songs were thoroughly enjoyed and the group was thrilled with the opportunity of meeting these talented ladies.

Mrs. W. E. Lewis, an 80 year old aunt of Mrs. Melvin who was a valued member of the chorus, led in the devotionals repeating the first Psalm in Welsh, and was joined in the Lord's Prayer by the entire chorus to close the program.

Mrs. Dorn invited the members and guests to the candle-light dining room where tea and the accompanying delicacies were served from a perfectly appointed table covered with a white linen cloth with silver and crystal appointments adorned with a long low silver watergarden filled with flowers tinted in red, white and blue. Mrs. Ralph Hays presided over the punch bowl and Mrs. Homer Wilson over the silver tea service.

Mr. and Mrs. Archie Shaw and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Harley left Friday for a week's motoring trip in the eastern states where they expect to visit Philadelphia, Washington, D. C., New York and Buffalo.

Alpha Circle Family Picnic

The Woodyard Cottage at Rock Bridge was an ideal setting for the Alpha Circle CCL family picnic on Thursday evening.

Swings, wading and hiking were enjoyed by the youngsters while the men's appetites were whetted by a strenuous game of pitching horse-shoes.

The bounteous meal was served buffet style with long tables on the lawn arranged for seating the guests.

Games afforded much merriment with suckers being awarded for prizes in the "treasure hunt." The sack race was won by Gretchen Himmelsbach.

In an hilarious "honeymoon race" among the couples Mr. and Mrs. William Fletcher won the prize.

Each child was given balloons and bubble gum as favors before leaving. Members and guests were: Mr. and Mrs. William Fletcher children Marcia, Bill and guest Carol Dellinger, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Foster and son Michael, Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon Grubbs and daughter Sharon, Mr. and Mrs. William Himmelsbach daughters Gretchen and Kristin, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Kelly daughter Cindy Lou, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar McFadden and Eddie and Judy, Mr. and Mrs. Ora Middleton, Kay and David, Mr. and Mrs. Don Scholl, Doug and Don, Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Whiteside David, Jane, Bill, Mike and Linda, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Woodyard Patsy, Marty and Betsy, Mr. and Mrs. Fulton Alkire daughter Jane, Mrs. Richard Gillen daughter Janice, son Jack and guest David Ferguson, Mrs. Robert Minshall, Kay and Dennis.

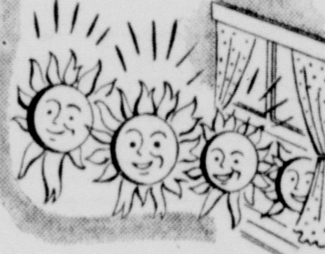

Hostesses for the successful affair were Mrs. Wendell Whiteside, Mrs. Edgar McFadden, Mrs. William Fletcher, Mrs. Ora Middleton and Mrs. Richard Croker.

WSCS June Meeting

The June meeting of the Maple Grove WSCS was held at the home of Mrs. Wesley Jones.

Mrs. Oather Hill was devotional leader and chose for the opening hymn, "Sweet Hour of Prayer," and this was followed with prayer. Responsive reading was "The Beatitudes," taken from the fifth chapter of Matthew. A reading

ICE CREAM

The Nation Today

BY JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON, July 1—(AP)—The reciprocal trade agreements act dies tonight—at least for a while—because Congress failed to get around to renewing it.

This act is a cornerstone in our foreign policy. It was first passed in 1934 under the guidance of President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Hull to build trade with other countries.

It has been renewed repeatedly since then by Congress, the last time in 1948 when it was made clear the act would die June 30, 1949 unless Congress acted to continue it.

Months ago President Truman told Congress the deadline was approaching and the act should be renewed. The House approved it. But the Senate has dawdled.

Maybe in a month or so the Senate will finally do something about it. In the end, Congress is expected to continue the act for at least another year, maybe another three years.

All this is a little embarrassing for this country and a group of our trade experts. They are now in France with the representatives of 33 other countries, all trying to work out trade agreements.

They have agreed on a number of deals—work on them goes back two years—and Mr. Truman has been able to start them moving by approving them.

The trade agreements act gave him this power to approve. But Mr. Truman—in this case, the U. S.—can't okay any further deals at the French meeting after today, until the act is once more renewed by Congress, whenever that is.

So the Senate's tardiness leaves the work of the American experts in France a little up in the air. Yet, these agreements are important in restoring world trade.

The act means simply this: The U. S. will lower our tariffs on certain, agreed-upon goods imported from other countries provided they reciprocate by lowering their tariffs on certain goods imported from us.

We've made these agreements with 42 countries.

For example: We may want wine from France, France wants machinery from us. We lower our tariffs on French wine coming in here. The French lower their tariffs on machinery going into France.

We may not want French silk. The French may not want our rollerskates. So we don't lower our tariffs on their silk. They don't lower their tariffs on our rollerskates.

This is the crudest kind of explanation, for the whole problem is very complicated, as can be seen from what the experts of the 34 countries in France are trying to do:

To cut down country-by-country deals and end discrimination among countries, they're trying to make agreements by which any country that lowers its tariff on certain products of another

Congestion at Post Office Is Eased Somewhat

Rural Mail Cases Moved to Basement To Provide Room

In an effort to relieve the congestion at the Washington C. H. Post Office the six mail cases of the rural carriers have been moved into the basement of the building, giving considerable additional room in the main office, but still not sufficient to afford full relief from the congestion.

In all there are 35 employees at the Washington C. H. Post Office, and with steadily mounting volume of mail to handle, the office is still badly crowded, particularly for the city carriers, whose cases are jammed close together in an effort to conserve space.

The basement is cool and there is ample room for working the mail, but the inconvenience of carrying the mail down stairs and pulling it up the steps in baskets which slide on boards placed on the stairway, is the chief drawback.

More room has been provided in the main office, for handling incoming mail and distributing it. A rearrangement of cases has been necessary.

A loading platform extension of 10 by 17 feet, connecting with the present platform, which is enclosed, will do much toward providing additional space for mail and will further relieve the congestion in the main office.

This platform, which will be enclosed, has been promised for the near future.

country will give all of the other 32 countries the same tariff rates on those certain products. (That doesn't mean all products).

When the trade act was first passed in 1934 our tariffs on foreign goods coming in here to compete with American goods were very high. This was to protect American producers.

So the act allowed the president to cut tariffs where he saw fit, but only after a long study by government experts and public hearings where anyone who thought he might be hurt could complain.

Some congressmen, particularly Republicans, haven't been too fond of the trade act. They've argued the tariff cuts have hurt some American businesses.

Before letting the act be continued, they'll fight for what they say is more protection for American business. They'll do that by trying to put more restrictions on the president's ability to cut.

To cut down country-by-country deals and end discrimination among countries, they're trying to make agreements by which any country that lowers its tariff on certain products of another

TOKYO—(AP)—Of the 400,000 fan letters received by Gen. Douglas MacArthur from the Japanese, one stands out.

It is from Masashige Takahashi. He approved the Allied occupation commander's work so enthusiastically that he wound up by asking MacArthur to become his brother.

There is no record of MacArthur's reply.

Chimpanzee Bite Pays As Woman Awarded Claim

CINCINNATI, July 1—(AP)—An 80-year-old woman was awarded $8,000 here yesterday by a jury on a claim she was bitten by a chimpanzee.

Mrs. Anna Wagonlander of Newport, Ky., claimed she was bitten by the chimpanzee from the Cincinnati Zoo during a show at the Cincinnati Club Dec. 20, 1947. She asked $12,000 damages in the suit. Three chimps had been taken to the club for a performance.

Two Columbus Deaths Caused by Drowning

COLUMBUS, July 1—(AP)—Thomas Smith, 27, and William Jackson, 17, drowned near here today in separate accidents. Smith, a member of a swimming party, drowned in Big Darby Creek. Jackson drowned in the Scioto River when he slipped from a bank while fishing.

Figures Show Unemployment Declining Here

More Jobs Provided In May Than Since February, 1945

The 61 jobs filled by the Bureau of Unemployment Compensation's Employment Division in Washington C. H. during May were distributed among the construction, manufacturing, agricultural and wholesale & retail industries. Ward C. Miller, manager, stated Friday.

More skilled workers were placed in May than in any month since February, 1945.

An increase was shown in the placement of female workers. Agricultural placements for the first five months of 1949 were 8 percent above the same period a year ago. A total of 63 different farm orders was received during that five-month period as compared with 51 during 1948.

Applications for jobs continued to decrease and at the end of May there were only 126 persons seeking employment, the lowest number since Oct. 1948.

The number of continued claims for unemployment benefits decreased and at the month's end there were but 156 active claims. A total of 610 weeks of unemployment compensation benefits were recorded during May, 436 being under the Ohio Law, and a total of $10,520.71 was the gross amount paid for unemployment, $7,115.71 for Ohio Law claimants and $3,405.00 to servicemen's readjustment allowances. This was 8.9 percent less than the amount paid in April. The total paid for the 5-month period in 1949 was $65,104.56, an average weekly benefit for total unemployment of $17.23.

National Network Is Planned by CIO

CLEVELAND, July 1—(AP)—President Walter P. Reuther of the CIO United Auto Workers says the union is planning a national network of labor-controlled radio stations.

They will be dedicated, the labor leader explained last night, to enlightenment of "the little people" in their struggle to keep the world free from totalitarianism.

Reuther spoke at the opening broadcast of station WCUO, which the union opened. WDET in Detroit is the auto workers' other station.

The union official said the new station "will be the voice of the little people because they are the core and the heart that makes up America.

Through the union's two stations, he added, listeners will get "the true and basic facts" on the issues troubling the nation and the world.

Murder Intent Denied; Man Too Close to Miss

IRONTON, July 1—(AP)—Common Pleas Judge James Collier yesterday acquitted Isaac Pancake on a charge of shooting to kill John DeLong. Pancake said he fired a sawed-off shotgun into a bank during an argument with DeLong over some land. The judge ruled that at such a close distance, Pancake could not have missed DeLong if he had intended to kill or wound him.

New Directory Distributed by Polk Company

Increase of 3,286
Names Here Since
Year 1946

Polk's 1949 Washington C. H. city directory is now off the press and being delivered to subscribers by R. L. Polk & Co., of Detroit, the compilers and publishers.

Covering the usual territory of Washington C. H. and the surrounding rural routes, and maintaining the customary minimum listing age of eighteen, the directory lists 11,988 names of residents and firms. This represents an increase of 3,286 names over the last previous edition in 1946 according to the publisher's records.

Special features of the city guidebook, found nowhere else in print, include the designations of tenant-owned homes, homes and places of business having telephone connection, marital status and the given names of wives. Other features are a numerical telephone guide; lists of government officials; and a statistical story of the city contributed by the Washington Court House Chamber of Commerce.

The variety of Washington C. H. business shows in the classified pages of the new directory, where 259 different groups of enterprise are catalogued from "Abattoirs" to "Wool Dealers."

Following the usual custom, the latest Washington C. H. city directory will be distributed to directory libraries maintained by the members of the directory publisher's association at Chambers of Commerce in other cities, the Polk Co. announced. These copies to be used for public reference, will represent Washington C. H. to the outside, replacing the old directory. A branch of the out-of-town directory service was established recently by the publishers at the offices of the Washington C. H. Chamber of Commerce, and a number of late outside directories are there available for public reference.

Between Charles V. Abbott and Walter Zimmerman, who are top and bottom, respectively of the new Washington C. H. roster, are numerous unusual surnames and combinations, such as Bonecutter and Junk; a Child who is a man; two Eyes and one Head; Friends and Cousins; Long and Short; and High and Lowe. There is a Butcher who is a nurse; a Roof who is a roofer; a Cook who is a mechanic; and a Shoemaker who is a teacher (all names of residents).

Jasper Stitchers Hold Picnic Meet

The Jasper Happy Stitchers held a picnic at the roadside park on Route 35 after holding their eleventh business meeting.

Thirteen members were present at the get-together as plans for a food sale July 5 were discussed. The sale will be held at the Bank Building in Milledgeville.

The next meeting of the 4-H club will be held July 7 at the Jasper Township schoolgrounds with Phyllis Massie and Betty Jean Smith acting as the hostesses.

Tire Company to Move In Near Future to Ohio

JEANNETTE, Pa., July 1—(AP)—Officials of the Pennsylvania Rubber Company yesterday confirmed reports the firm's tire and tube division will be moved to Ohio.

P. C. Mathewson, vice president in charge of production, said the move—scheduled at the "earliest possible date"—was necessitated by the high cost of production in the Jeannette plant.

Picked Up as Murder 15th Jimmy Stewart Suspect Is Released

COLUMBUS, July 1—(AP)—Police last night turned loose the 15th Jimmy Stewart they have questioned in connection with the slaying of Miss Eleanor Gifford, Athens church worker.

The man released by the State Highway Patrol last night a Jimmy Stewart, 38, of Cincinnati. He was arrested in the Queen City earlier yesterday and brought here for questioning.

Patrol Lt. Floyd Moon issued

this statement:

"This suspect picked up in Cincinnati by our officers this date in connection with the Gifford murder case at Athens has been released and was not identified by witnesses."

Moon did not reveal what witnesses had viewed the man here. Fourteen other Jimmy Stewarts have been held for questioning since the 52-year-old church worker was found beaten to death in her home last Jan. 3. All have been released.

Police said they have little information to go on in their search for a Jimmy Stewart, about 22, who is described as a former Columbus bartender.

Victims Skeptical Of Singleton Tale

CLEVELAND, July 1—(AP)—John W. (Jack) Singleton was called into bankruptcy court today to give some details of the used car swindle that sent him to prison.

Shortly after he arrived from Ohio Penitentiary yesterday, he gave a statement in the Federal Marshal's office saying he had debtors who owe him more than $300,000. Attorneys for his victims expressed skepticism, however.

The smooth-talking, former salesman is serving a 10-to-70-year sentence on 14 counts of larceny by trick. Singleton bilked his customers of more than $500,000 they had paid down on almost-new automobiles.

DiMaggio Does It Again

Reds Edged by Pirates
Despite Fox's Good Job

By JACK HAND
(By the Associated Press)
The Redlegs of Cincinnati, who have had trouble lately in winning from the tailenders in the National League, take on the red-hot Cardinals tonight in the opener of a three-game series.

The Rhinelanders, battling to retain sixth place, must make a creditable showing in the series for they lead the seventh-place Pittsburgh Pirates by only a half-game and are only two and one-half games ahead of the cellar-dwelling Chicago Cubs.

Manager Bucky Walters said he would use Ken Raffensberger, the Reds' winningest pitcher, against Harry Brecheen in the opener.

At Pittsburgh yesterday, first sacker Johnny Hopp stole home in the sixth inning with what proved to be the winning run as the Pirates shaded the Reds, 2-1.

The defeat was a heart-breaker for big Howie Fox. He allowed only four hits, but the Pirates bunched three of them in the sixth to score both of their runs.

Fox tumbling to his seventh defeat, was in complete charge and pitched hitless ball until the fifth when Wally Westlake tripled. He got out of that all right and had two men retired in the sixth when Pete Castiglione and Hopp singled.

Rookie Dina Restelli then doubled, scoring Castiglione and, when a play was made for Restelli at second, Hopp dashed home with the deciding marker.

Lefty Cliff Chambers, registering his third victory, held the Reds scoreless on seven hits through the first eight rounds. In the ninth, Jimmy Bloodworth singled and Grady Hatton doubled, sending fleet Lloyd Merriman, who ran for Bloodworth, home with the Reds' only marker.

All-Star DiMaggio
Better check those all-star votes. The name Joe DiMaggio seems to be missing.

If there is any legitimate 100 percent all-star in the baseball business today, Joe is it. What matter that he missed the first 65 games? Off his showing in three ball games, he belongs on the team.

Ask the folks up around Fen way Park, where he led the New York Yankees to three stunning victories over the Red Sox. He'd be elected by acclamation.

Lou Boudreau, as manager of the American League team in the July 12 all-star game at Brooklyn, has the privilege of naming the rest of his squad after the eight non-pitching starters have been selected by fan vote. He can use the Yankee clipper, if only as a pinch hitter.

When Lou picks his squad, you'll probably find jolting Joe right behind the first three outfielders picked by the fans—Ted Williams, Tommy Henrich and brother Dominic DiMaggio.

Since DiMag moved into the majors from San Francisco in 1936, he has been named to ten all-star teams, missing only 1943-44-45 while in service. He didn't play in 1946 although he was on the squad and last year at St. Louis he was injured and appeared only as a pinch-hitter.

The DiMaggio story of 1949 is familiar to all by this time. Now he sat out 65 games, played one exhibition and they catapulted into a starring role at Boston.

He Did It Again

Jolting Joe did it again yesterday, crashing a three-run homer in the seventh inning to provide the winning 6-3 margin over the dazed Red Sox. He proved he is human by hitting into a double play, and popping out as well. Also he walked once and was hit by a pitched ball.

For three days, DiMaggio's performance chart read like this:
AB R H Pct. HR RBI PO A E
11 4 5 455 4 9 13 0 0

His first hit was a single, but the last four have been homers to tie Johnny Mize of the New York Giants for the most homers by an active player. Each has hit 307.

Cards Whip Cubs
For Seventh Win

The Cardinals made it seven in a row Thursday morning when they trounced the Cubs at Wilson Field; 26-6.

Finishing their second week of Knothole League activities with an unmarred string of victories, the Cards slammed out 17 hits and scored nine runs in both the second and sixth innings.

As if that wasn't enough, the winners humbled the Cubs even more by crossing the plate in every other inning but the fourth when they apparently stopped for breath.

The Sox were moving fast when the Yanks came to town. Now they're in fifth place, eight full games back. Regardless of the other contenders, it's Boston the Yanks are keeping their eyes on as they near the halfway mark in the race.

Vic Raschi, once a "cousin" for Boston, earned his second victory of the year over a team he never had beaten until this season. He gave up a dozen hits in a route-going job for his 12th victory.

Athletics Knocked Off

Washington gave the Yanks a little more breathing room by knocking off Philadelphia, 8-6, in the only night game. The loss left the second place A's 5½ games behind New York.

A four-run rally in the eighth after two were out helped Dick Weik win his first major league game as a reliever for Joe Haynes. Dick Fowler was the loser.

Detroit cut loose with a 17-hit attack on Early Wynn and three other Cleveland pitchers for a 12-6 triumph that moved them into third place ahead of the tribe.

Brooklyn and St. Louis both lost in the National, leaving the Dodgers out front by a full game. The Phils' veteran lefty, Ken Heintzelman tamed the Dodgers, 4-2, and the Chicago Cubs bombed the Cardinals, 12-5, with Hank Edwards hitting two homers, scoring five runs and driving in four.

Bill Voiselle and Glenn Elliott hurled the Boston Braves to a double victory over the Giants, 3-0 and 6-2. Elbie Fletcher's three-run homer off Hank Behrman did the trick for Voiselle who allowed four hits.

Chicago and St. Louis were not scheduled in the American.

Rose Avenue Girls
Defeat Eastsiders

Girls from both Rose Avenue and Eastside did a lot of running Thursday morning, despite the heat, but before it was all over the Eastside gals tired first as the Rose Avenuers scored a 18-16 softball victory.

A slug-fest from start to finish,

3-0 and 6-2. Elbie Fletcher's three-run homer off Hank Behrman did the trick for Voiselle who allowed four hits.

the girls teed off on nearly every good pitch and knocked the ball all over the Eastside field, before the visitors took home the winner's crown.

Services Held for

Funeral services for Charles L. Roll Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Roll, were held Thursday afternoon at 2 P. M., at the Morrow Funeral Home with the Rev. Clarence P. Miller, pastor of the Jeffersonville Methodist Church, officiating.

Rev. Miller offered prayer, delivered the sermon, read the 23rd psalm and the poem, "Which is Taller Now."

Two songs, "When He Cometh" and "Safe In the Arms of Jesus," were sung by Mr. and Mrs. Max Morrow. Mrs. Morrow played the accompaniment on the piano.

Interment was made in the Jeffersonville Fairview Cemetery with Paul Winn acting as the pall-bearer.

Joe Drake's Two Hitter Handcuffs NCR Squad

The Drakes put their first place lead in the all-summer softball league on the chopping block Thursday evening, but left Wilson Field with another victory and a firm hold on the loop's first place when they downed NCR 4-1.

Although NCR had a record of only one win and three defeats, the win was enough to tumble Universal out of a tie for the loop lead and undoubtedly the Drakes remembered it.

But once again it was the masterful pitching of Joe Drake which kept the league leaders on top throughout the game as he allowed only two hits in gaining his fifth victory of the season in an as many starts.

Striking out 13 and walking only one, Drake handcuffed the cash register boys, after yielding one run in the first inning, so efficiently that NCR never crossed the plate again.

Meanwhile Joe's team mates grabbed one run in the first, two in the third and one in the fourth to put the game on ice as they collected eight hits off loser Matson.

Matson struck out three and walked two and made the Drakes waste most of their blows to hurl a game which easily could have been a win at some other time.

In the field, both teams were fairly careless with the winners committing three misplays while the losers made four bobbles.

No extra-base blows were hit during the entire tilt and only Ebert, center fielder for the winners, was able to garner more than one safety. Ebert got two for four, but failed to score either time.

Friday night will feature one regular league tilt and an out-of-loop contest as Lawson Legion faces the Drakes in the opener and Universal plays the Dayton NCR in the nightcap.

The Dayton NCR plays in that city's industrial league and is in second place trailing only the Dayton DP&L. Playing many out-of-loop contests, they have a good record including a two-game split with Sabina.

Universal will probably use Hobbie on the mound in an effort to halt the invaders.

In the opener the Drakes will again be putting their undefeated record to the test for the second straight night. The Lawson Legion has a record of two wins and four defeats. Evans will be the probable pitcher for the legion team.

Waitkus Awaits Operation For Removal of Bullet--Girl Who Shot Him Called Insane

CHICAGO, July 1.—(P)—Eddie Waitkus, Philadelphia Phillies first baseman, was to undergo an operation today for removal of a bullet lodged near his spine.

The 29-year-old baseball star was to be taken from the Illinois Masonic Hospital to Billings Memorial Hospital for the operation. A hospital spokesman said the removal of the .22 caliber rifle bullet is not a serious operation. He said Waitkus' condition is "fine," but he will be confined to the hospital for about 10 days. It was not known whether Waitkus will be able to play with the Phillies later this season.

Waitkus has been in the hospital since June 15 after he was shot and wounded by Miss Ruth Ann Steinhagen, 19-year-old typist who had a secret crush on him for two years. He was shot after he had gone to her hotel room in response to her pleas she had something "important" to tell him.

Miss Steinhagen, in fast-moving legal proceedings yesterday, was committed to the Kankakee State Hospital for treatment. She was adjudged insane by a jury after a grand jury indicted her on a charge of assault with intent to murder. After she was found insane the indictment against her was stricken with leave to reinstate it.

Miss Steinhagen earlier had appeared in felony court where Waitkus, sitting in a wheel chair, related events leading up to the shooting. She displayed no emotion and did not speak to Waitkus.

Dr. William H. Haines, head of the criminal court behavior clinic, testified the tall, dark-haired girl is a victim of schizophrenia (split personality). He told the jury he had examined her daily since she was arrested after the shooting "and I have found her insane."

The girl's father, Walter, and her attorneys requested she be sent to an institution "without delay."

Texans Dominate Women's Tourney

LINCOLN, Neb., July 1.—(P)—A definite threat today to Texas' apparent monopoly on the women's trans-Mississippi golf title was Marjorie Lindsay of Decatur, Ill.

Miss Lindsay, who was a sensation in the Florida winter tournaments, came up to her third round, or quarterfinal match, with Mrs. George Noble of Dallas, Tex., with the best medal record thus far in the meet.

The Illinois girl was six strokes under women's par for 16 holes on the Lincoln Country Club course in defeating the capable Bea McWane of Provo, Utah, 3 and 2 in yesterday's second round. Miss Lindsay equaled regulation figures for men for that distance.

Runner-up with a 76 to co-medalist Betty MacKinnon of Mt. Pleasant, Tex., and Besty Rawls of Austin, Miss Lindsay has been well under the women's standard 79 in each of her appearances on the 6,330-yard tournament strip.

Big Stake Won By Kirk Filly

Travels Broadened By Reinsman Cobb

Washington C. H. and Fayette County today were back in the harness horse racing spotlight that cast its beam all the way from Fairmont Park at St. Louis to swank Roosevelt Raceway in Westbury, N. Y.

McKinley Kirk, Washington C. H. livestock dealer, farmer and sportsman, came through with the winner of one division of the $14,175 Abbedale Stakes for three-year-old pacing fillies at Westbury Thursday night.

Driven by Kirk himself, his filly, Waverly Ann won the first division of the $3,189.36 winner's share of the purse. Waverly Ann won the mile dash easily by four lengths. The filly, by Blackstone out of Jane Ann was never in danger as she showed the way in pacing the mile in the excellent time of 2:05.2. In the mutuals, she paid $14.70 for $2. Dotty Direct finished second and Romola Hai was third.

Goshen Is Next

From Westbury, she is to be shipped to Good Time Park at Goshen, N. Y., the site of the famous Hambletonian, for another stake race Monday night. Waverly Ann had a two-year-old mark of 2:07.1.

Waverly Ann's dam is Jane Ann, owned by Kirk and Bob Vallery. Kirk raced her before she was retired to his breeding farm near New Holland as a broodmare. Jane Ann and her foal by Billy Direct died last year.

The other division of the stakes was won by Blue Skies, owned by Frances McKenzie, in a driving finish by a neck from the favorite, Olivette Hanover. She paid $17.30 to win and the time of the mile was 2:08.2. Bermuda was third.

Cobb Commuting

Meanwhile, Kirk's son-in-law, Eddie Cobb, was throwing his commuting into high gear.

He drove in several races at Fairmont Park, where he is the leading reinsman, Thursday night. He took the first plane after the race for New York where he is to drive his Jerry the First in the Invitational $25,000 special at Roosevelt Raceway Friday night. And, he is to fly back to Dayton and then go to Troy to pilot Royal

Fayette Teams Ready To End Half of Season

All four Fayette County squads in the South Central Ohio League and the South Western Ohio League will be playing baseball again this Sunday with only the Washington C. H. Senators remaining in the county.

For the Senators, Sunday's contest will be important as it is the last day of the first round of activities. Now in a tie with Chillicothe, if the Senators down Grove City at Wilson Field, they will be well on their way towards the season play-offs at the end of the summer.

Under normal circumstances, a win for the Senators would mean at least a tie for the first round and a definite spot in the play-offs, but the Washington C. H. boys still have two big postponed games to complete first.

The rained-out tilts, against Chillicothe and Lancaster, will be played as parts of twin-bills here later in the season. After they are completed, the first round will be officially over.

Grove City will invade Fayette County with a record of three wins and three defeats, which puts them just above the cellar club, Wilmington.

The Jeffersonville Cubs will travel to Lancaster Sunday in an effort to take over third place in the loop, as a victory for Barney Coe's squad would let the Fayette County boys reverse league standings with the Glassmen.

The other SCO loop contest will find Chillicothe playing the Wilmington Flyers. Chillicothe thus has the easiest touch of the week, as the Flyers have yet to win a game, so if the Senators lose, the Ross Countians may find themselves in undisputed possession of first place.

In the South Western Ohio Loop, with no rounds setup, Sunday's games are a little less crucial for both the Washington Moose and Good Hope.

The SWO operates on a four-way playoff system for the first division teams at the end of the season, and with the loop only half completed, nearly anything can happen. Although Bowersville is firmly entrenched in first place, the next five teams are all within a game of each other in the standings.

Both Fayette County squads leave their home grounds Sunday as the Moose travels to Sabina and Good Hope goes to Wilmington. With a record of five wins and four defeats, the Moose will have an opportunity to better their fourth place position with a win over the eighth place squad which has won two games out of six.

Good Hope will be out on a vengeance trial when it plays its next two games, as the result of KING KASH FURNITURE will close Saturday, July 2, 5 P. M. and RE-OPEN WEDNESDAY, July 6, Adv.

Man in the feature race there Saturday night.

Cobb, whose home is in Washington C. H. and his winter training headquarters at the Fairground here, has built up the reputation as being the most "commutingest" as well as one of the best race drivers in the country today.

From Fairground To Madison Square Garden--One Easy Step

The jump from the Fayette County Fairgrounds with a grandstand seating capacity of about 2,200, to Madison Square Garden in New York (capacity more than 18,000) is a big one for the WHS band but it's going to make it.

This was announced today by Bob Terhune following receipt of a letter from William R. Bird, secretary of the Lions International Convention, to be held in New York this month.

Bird wrote that the WHS band was one of 20 picked out of about 200 bands from all over the United States to play in the world-famous garden.

The WHS band and another will occupy the bandstand in the mammoth garden July 18 and will play for at least 10 minutes each during an afternoon meeting of the Lions International convention delegates.

Tonight at 8:15 o'clock the WHS band will get a warm-up for its New York debut with a concert, which band members hope will net them enough money to complete a fund which will be used to send them to that city.

Advance ticket sales have been good but band members are hopeful that there will be a big sale of both box and grandstand seats at the gate tonight.

Concert To Be Broadcast

The concert will be broadcast by WWSO, a Springfield radio station, it was announced today by Terhune.

He said Bob Minshall, who is an experienced announcer, will act as master-of-ceremonies and an announcer for the show tonight. An engineer will be sent over from Springfield to take a 30-minute transcription of the show for presentation later.

There are hopes that the show tonight raises enough money to send the band to the big city,

Auto Dealers Gather Here

State Association Directors Meet

A tribute to Washington C. H. and Fayette County hospitality was paid Thursday when the board of directors of the Ohio Auto Dealers Association met at the Country Club here for the second year in a row.

Some 30 directors, representing over 90 percent of the 2,300 auto dealers in the state, gathered at the club for luncheon, dinner, a business meeting, some informal talk and golf around the course.

Largely instrumental in getting the state association to come to Washington C. H. for one of its quarterly board meetings was Ray Brandenburg, Washington C. H. auto dealer and president of the group last year.

Brandenburg is a director at large from the state of Ohio to the National Automobile Dealers Association. Ernie Dowd of Cleveland, director from Ohio to the NADA, was present at the board meeting Thursday.

Brandenburg said good food at the Country Club and the pleasant atmosphere at the club was responsible for getting the state auto dealers board to come here.

Conducting the business session after lunch was Rudy Reinholdt, president of the state association.

Work Is Underway On Inn Addition

Work on the construction of an addition to the Sunnyside Inn, immediately south of the National Cash Register, has been started by Everett Minton, owner.

He said the addition will give the inn about 400 square feet more floor space, or about 50 percent more room in which to accommodate customers.

The addition is of cement block construction with steel bracing and will feature glass block windows. A new front will be constructed to extend along the side facing Chillicothe Road.

Minton said the addition increases kitchen space and provides a place for regular meals or semi-private parties. His wife, Mrs. Mary F. Minton, operates the inn.

The Mintons have owned the inn since May 1, 1946, when they bought it out from Enzo Lamb, who operated the establishment for two years.

Increased business owing to the NCR plant next door was given by Minton as the reason for building the addition.

91 degrees, one degree below the 92 recorded on Wednesday.

Some relief from the torridity came with light rainfall over this area after 7 P. M., but the mercury did not drop below 66 during the night, and by 8 A. M. Friday had rebounded to 75 degrees and appeared above the 90 mark once more.

Humidity remains high, making the heat doubly disagreeable.
